

Winn, Esq. of Warley Lodge, Essex. The deceased will be long remembered in the South of Ireland, and in his own County more especially, as a nobleman conspicuous for the unobtrusive yet energetic discharge of the many duties connected with his rank and station; uniformly setting an admirable example of genuine philanthropy, founded in deep religious principle. In the various relations of life, as a husband, a master, a patron, and a friend, his was, indeed an exemplary course; while, as one of the very best landlords in Ireland, the name of Lord Headley will be handed down from father to son, and his memory revered and fondly cherished. The sorrow caused by his death is as deep as it is universal—it is a heartfelt sorrow—one, however, not without its consolation, for with truth can it be recorded of him, that as he lived so he died, in the Christian and blessed hope of a joyful resurrection.

At Exeter Boarding School, Blanche, aged 11 years, only surviving child of the late Captain Stanton R. N. and granddaughter, of the late Captain John Berkley Westropp, of this city.

Yesterday morning, at Richmond, near this City, aged 18 years, Sarah, the beloved daughter of Mr. David FitzGerald.

In Charleville, Miss Melian O'Connell, daughter of the late James O'Connell, Esq. of that town.

In this City, on Saturday last, after a protracted illness, Catharine, the beloved wife of Mr. Jeremiah Tuohy, Classical Teacher.

At Ennis, of measles, the infant son of Capt. John Crowe, late 93d Regt.

Jane, daughter of Mr. William Bradshaw.

At Newtown Avenue, Blackrock, aged 72, Mrs. Robert Disney, relict of the late Rev. R. Disney, of Mitchelstown, county Cork.

At Monkstown, near Dublin, Lieut.-Colonel Owen Lloyd, of Rockville, county Roscommon.

In Blessington-street, Catherine Matilda, wife of Richard Macnamara, Esq.

In North Cumberland-street, Robert Barber, Esq.

At Rostrever, Elizabeth, daughter of the late William Magill, Esq. of Crieve, county Tyrone.

At Sunday's Well, Cork, Elizabeth, the beloved wife of Thomas Acock, of Patrick-street.

Maryanne, daughter of the late William O'Regan, Esq. Cork.

At Midleton, Charles, son of Mr. Wm. Daly, Officer of Excise. Of scarletina, Zacharias, son of Joseph Coghlan, Esq. Cork.